Description
-------------

Large oil on wood by Jean Georges Chape (1913-2002), French painter and figurative designer whose painting and drawings are somewhat similar to those of Picasso who was one of his friends. 'BIOGRAPHY Painter known for his works exploring dark and emotionally powerful themes. Born in Paris, he grew up in an artistic environment. He became known in the 1930s by exhibiting in all the Parisian salons. His career was interrupted by the Second World War, during which he was taken prisoner. He continued to paint, producing works inspired by his war experiences, including scenes of captivity and suffering. After the war, Chape developed a style often described as "Painting of Suffering", featuring tormented bodies, deformed forms and scenes evoking human trauma. His works have
