Description

Discover a rare and elegant piece of Indochinese craftsmanship, made during the French colonial period. This exceptional embroidered silk hanging depicts a bucolic scene of deer roaming a lush forest, offering a perfect blend of exoticism and European influence. Unlike many creations of the time, this work moves away from traditional Asian motifs to fit into the aesthetic codes of European tapestries, testifying to a perfect cultural fusion and timeless refinement. This exceptional work is enhanced by its original frame, also dating from the 1940s. This wooden frame, glazed to protect the embroidery, has an elegant light blue patina, giving a delicate and timeless touch to the whole. The frame highlights the richness of the details while ensuring perfect preservation of the hanging. Characteristics:
