Description

Gilded bronze sculpture by Yves Lohé representing a mask with a bird near a leaf on a circular terrace from the 60s and 70s. Very pretty piece, quite characteristic of the dreamlike world of this great artist born in 47, a student of Abel Bataillard and having participated many times in the Salon des Indépendants. Work with a beautiful original patina and signed by the artist on the terrace. Uncommon collector's item in the artist's inventory. Possibility of sending to France and around the world by secure and insured package with order tracking. Invoice and certificate provided.
