Description

Pair of carved gilded wood putti, Italian Renaissance period 16th century. These two sculptures represent winged putti finely crafted in solid wood, testifying to the artistic know-how of the Italian Renaissance. Each figure has an expressive angel's face, surrounded by detailed curls and large, finely carved wings, adorned with decorative motifs typical of this period. The rich and luminous gilding highlights the sculptural details. These pieces, probably from religious or decorative furniture, embody the refined and spiritual style of Italian sacred art of the 16th century. Dimensions: Height 84 cm width 60 cm depth 30 cm
