Description

Indian ink drawing on paper by a Flemish painter at the end of the 17th century: around 1680. The work shows a typical Dutch landscape with a castle and a township. In the centre a bare tree, which seems to divide the scene in two, and people walking. On the back of the drawing there is an inscription. The state of preservation is good. The upper right-hand corner of the drawing is slightly torn. The work has a backing board with measurements 35x25 cm and a non-coeval frame measuring 40x31 cm.
