Description

Portrait of a Young Woman with a Hat The masterful portrait of a young woman from Viennese society was executed at the end of the 19th century by the Austrian portrait, landscape, still life and war painter Leopold Widlizka (also Widliczka (1870 in Vienna - 1940 New York, USA). Widlizka began his studies at the Institute for Graphic Teaching and Research under Joseph-Eugen Hörwarter and was a guest student at the Academy of Fine Arts Vienna in October 1889, and was a regular student from 1891. In 1892 he moved to the Munich Academy and worked under Nikolaus Gysis. He was influenced by the circles around Franz von Lenbach and Hermann von Kaulbach. In 1899 Widlizka was back in Vienna, where he exhibited a portrait of a child at the Künstlerhaus. He mainly painted
