Description

This extraordinary piece is a masterpiece of goldsmith craftsmanship, created in the first half of the 20th century in renowned jewellers' workshops (as evidenced by the label on the back from a jeweller's in Madrid). Characteristics: Inspiration: The panel is inspired by the famous Retablo de San Miguel de Aralar, an exceptional example of medieval European religious art declared an Asset of Cultural Interest. Historical context: The original altarpiece, made during the reign of King Sancho VI the Wise in the late 12th century, is attributed to a French workshop in Limoges and is kept in the Sanctuary of San Miguel de Aralar in Spain. Materials and craftsmanship: Materials: Made of gilded bronze, enamelled and inlaid with semi-precious stones, including turquoise, malachite, citrine and agate.
