Description

These armchairs in carved pine wood and gilded with gold leaf represent a fine example of Tuscan craftsmanship in eighteenth-century style. The armchairs are characterized by a wavy style that gives them elegance and refinement. The carving presented on the armchairs is particularly refined, with the addition of gold leaf gilding, which gives the two pieces of furniture a luxurious and sumptuous appearance. The armchairs are also proportionately sized, thus ensuring a comfortable seat. The padded armrests also add further comfort and support. A notable feature of these armchairs is the open structure, which allows you to appreciate the gilding even from the back. This makes them suitable for being placed even in the center of a room, where they can be admired from all sides. The internal
