Description

This magnificent mahogany-stained beechwood side table, dating from 1920, is a true masterpiece of cabinetmaking. It rests on four elegantly carved asparagus-shaped legs, slightly curved in a whip shape, and connected by a spacer shelf decorated with a bronze molding. In the center of this shelf, a finely worked spinning top adds an additional touch of refinement. The belt of the side table is also richly decorated, featuring brass scrolls that testify to the craftsmanship of the time. The top of the side table is crowned with Carrara marble, surrounded by an openwork brass gallery, adding a note of luxury and sophistication to the whole. This unique piece, combining noble wood, bronze, brass and marble, is a perfect example of refined furniture from the early 20th century, ideal for lovers of antiques
