300 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Painted wood

Description

Southeast Asian Art: A pair of polychrome carved wooden birds on a base. Standing on a rectangular base, wings folded, tail raised. The fact that these birds are here represented with sharp fangs makes them completely fantastic. The red polychrome net underlining their "mouths" and the almond shape of their eyes express a certain ferocity. They seem ready to pounce on their prey at any moment. The honeyed color of the wood blends perfectly with the green and black on their tails and wings. In very good general condition. Free shipping for metropolitan France.
