Description

This magnificent trumeau from the Napoleon III period is an authentic piece that will bring elegance and character to your interior. The structure is made of wood and stucco, patinated in white tones with discreet gilding that highlights the refined patterns. The pediment is decorated with a sculpted floral decoration, with foliage and crossed ribbons typical of the Louis XV style. The original beveled mirror is characteristic of the Napoleon III period. It adds an extra touch of elegance and reflects light in a subtle way, perfect for visually enlarging a room. Condition: Very good for its age, with an original patina that testifies to its authenticity. A few small losses in the stucco, without altering its charm or solidity.
