Description

'Cathedral' is a sculpture made up of a wooden grid in which curved wooden slats are attached. The wooden slats are fixed with wooden blocks, which gives a wabisabi feeling to this work of art. The artist also likes to work with shadows, when you light the artwork you get a beautiful spectacle projected on the wall. Ronald Mariën born in Lier (Belgium) in 1953, is an artist and scientist, at the moment he mainly makes abstract sculptures from mostly recycled materials (such as wood), almost all his artworks are made from curved wooden slats which are steamed in a homemade oven designed by Ronald himself.
