Description

Beautiful pair of ovoid-shaped cassolettes, resting on a white marble square base. The side handles are supported by chimera masks (lion's muzzle with goat's ears and horns). The handles end with very graceful scrolls in relief.

Directoire-Consulate period work, last years of the 18th century or around 1800. Attributed to Claude Galle.

Excellent quality of chiseling and superb fine gold gilding in matt and shiny. These cassolettes are an perfect element of neoclassical decoration with multiple uses: as a fireplace decoration, on a piece of furniture or even on a refined party table.

Excellent condition, no accidents or missing parts, very fresh gilding (original) with minimal
