Description

oil on panel depicting a building with a commoner, signed lower right. Vincenzo Canino, born in Naples on July 2, 1892, was a self-taught painter of landscapes and still lifes. Canino was part of the group of painters who followed the masters of the Posillipo School, who dedicated themselves to painting in the open air, nomads through the countryside or the coast in search of glimpses, views, houses and churches that have now disappeared or are unrecognizable.
