Description

Elegant coffee table in solid walnut with walnut root veneer, featuring a round top supported by a central hexagonal shaft, which ends with three feet with a single base adorned with charming decorative curls. This piece has an intriguing peculiarity: a secret under the top. In fact, by pulling an iron tab, an oval compartment opens, equipped with small dividers, ideal for storing and hiding small objects. Characterized by excellent manufacturing, the coffee table stands out for its elegance and refinement, capable of embellishing any environment with taste and charm. It is also hypothesized that its manufacture may have been created following a design by the architect Fantastici. Tuscan manufacture from the Charles X period, early 19th century (ca. 1820).
