Description

Surprising, but nevertheless very beautiful little piece of furniture from the Art Deco period in a wood called "perfect wood", originally from South America. Purely in the style of the 1930s, it opens with two drawers, topped with a small niche, a shelf with a backslash that supports lighting. The buttons for turning on and off are original and in perfect working order (electricity redone). This small piece of furniture is ideal for presenting a beautiful object that will be discreetly lit from above and highlighted. And it can fit perfectly into a corner or corner.
