Description

This brown patina bronze print, titled "Capture" and signed by French sculptor Emmanuel Villanis (1858-1914), is a poignant work from the late 19th century. Villanis, known for his expressive and detailed sculptures, captured the emotion and vulnerability of his subject in this piece. The work depicts the bust of a restrained woman, her gaze expressing deep emotion. The meticulous details of the sculpture, from the facial features to the ties that restrain her, are a testament to Villanis' exceptional talent. Each curve and line is crafted with a precision that brings the scene to life, making the whole both realistic and moving. The brown patina of the bronze adds a dimension of depth and warmth to the sculpture, accentuating the shadows and reliefs for a striking visual effect. This work is a perfect example of
