Description

Painted miniature presented in a solid 18-carat colored gold brooch, representing the portrait of René Ange de la Guerrande* (1744-1816) in a frock coat, Lord of Ville-Colleu in Matignon (North Brittany), husband of Etiennette de Berthou (daughter of the president of the nobility in the states of Brittany), from the late 18th-early 19th centuries. Sold with a waistcoat that belonged to him. This brooch is in good condition. No hallmark but has been tested with 18K gold. We are adding to this brooch a striped waistcoat that belonged to René Ange de la Gyerrande (it also recalls the clothing worn on this miniature). Please note: the peak of the brooch is missing, tiny scratches and slight wear from time, see photos. Tears and wear of the fabric for the waistcoat (in its own juice). This
