Description

Louis XVI style mirror, dating from the 19th century, characterized by a richly carved pediment in gilded wood. The pediment is decorated with a bouquet of foliage, flowers and finely worked ears of wheat, symbolizing abundance and nature, in the classic spirit of the Louis XVI style. The rectangular frame has a delicately carved molding with typical motifs of the period, such as pearls or garlands. The mirror, of great clarity, adds a touch of elegance while remaining functional. This mirror is a refined piece, ideal for enhancing the charm of a classic interior or for bringing a touch of nobility to a contemporary decoration. Please note: the pediment has undergone several restorations and is embedded by a piece of wood. It probably came loose and was reattached in this way by a
