Description

Romantic Pair of Polychrome Porcelain Candelabras, These candelabras feature a modular design, with detachable arms that allow them to be transformed into simple candlesticks or multi-branched candelabras. This practical feature reflects a particular attention to versatility in the design of 19th century decorative objects. The bases are decorated with seated female figures in a bucolic setting, surrounded by abundant floral relief decoration, hand-painted in delicate pastel tones. The arms of the candelabra are finely carved, representing branches decorated with flowers and foliage, adding a touch of delicate and romantic charm. These pieces demonstrate exceptional craftsmanship and could have come from renowned manufacturers such as Meissen, Dresden, or similar, renowned
