Description

Antique late 19th-century Ernst Bohne & Söhne porcelain figurines - children carrying toddlers
This rare and charming pair of antique hand-painted porcelain figurines, created by Ernst Bohne & Söhne (EBS) in Rudolstadt, Germany, depicts a delightful scene of children holding toddlers on their shoulders. These intricately crafted figurines showcase the remarkable artistry of late 19th-century German porcelain production, with lifelike expressions, finely detailed clothing, and naturalistic bases in earthy tones. The bases feature the blue anchor mark of Ernst Bohne & Söhne, the impressed EBS company mark, and the numbers 12, 3902, and 21. Historical background: Founded in 1848 by Ernst Bohne in Rudolstadt, Germany, EBS quickly gained recognition for its high-quality porcelain figurines and decorative pieces. Known for its lifelike designs, the company pioneered overglaze painting techniques, enabling vibrant and detailed decoration. EBS exhibited its products at international events, including the 1851 Great Exhibition in London and the 1900 Exposition Universelle in Paris, earning numerous accolades. EBS became renowned for its diverse range of products, including ivory imitations, Capo di Monte-style pieces, biscuit figurines, and Dresden-style porcelain. Today, EBS figurines are highly collectible for their exceptional craftsmanship and historical significance.
