Rennes on March 27, 1893, and died in Dinard on July 26, 1983, is a French painter. In June 1913, a student at the School of Fine Arts in Rennes, he won a prize in the general decorative composition competition, "Bacon de Fenêtre", organized by the State Secretariat for Fine Arts at the National School of Fine Arts in Paris. This painter and engraver was then a student of Eugène Delâtre at the School of Fine Arts in Paris. To launch his career, Guinegault lived in Montparnasse where he rented a private mansion at 7 rue Jules Chaplain. In 1933, his studio was located on Rue
