Description

Elegant and functional, this Scandinavian side cabinet from the 1960s perfectly reflects Nordic aesthetics with its clean lines and timeless design. Crafted in a renowned workshop, it stands out for the quality of its materials and its light and refined silhouette.The cabinet features a single door with a flawless hinge mechanism and a minimalist construction without internal shelving, emphasizing the purity of its lines. The fruitwood veneer exterior contrasts beautifully with the solid wood interior, showcasing fine craftsmanship. The tapered legs, finished with brass-capped feet, lend an air of elegance, while the original metal handle discreetly blends into the design. The smooth natural finish enhances the warm tones of the wood.Provenance & HistoryThis piece was discovered in a Loire
