Description

RARE original print engraved with a burin on wood or steel, representing the plan of the CITY OF PORT-LOUIS in Morbihan (Brittany)

Engraved by LEMAU DE LA JAISSE (1679-1745), famous French engraver.

Hand-watercolored. Lemau de Jaisse (1679-1745) is renowned for his engravings representing plans, views of cities, and detailed maps of strongholds and strategic cities of the Kingdom of France. Highly prized at the time, these engravings, combining technical precision and aesthetic value, were often integrated into military or geographical works. Lemau de Jaisse specialized in the representation of fortified cities and strategic maritime places, documenting defensive systems such as bastions, ramparts, and other military works. His engravings include
