Description

Small powder flask called "pulverin" - Folk ArtA rare and charming object, this small powder flask, carved with a knife in a popular style, seduces with its decorations on two contrasting sides and rich in symbols. Side 1: An animated hunting scene where characters and animals rub shoulders, strongly recalling the popular imagination and rural traditions. Side 2: A solar wheel decorated with animals, completed with figures such as "Madame qui l'attend de pieds ferme" on one side, and, on the other, either a representation of a titmouse - evoking "Perhaps Liberty" - or a simple pigeon, opening the way to multiple interpretations. Period: based on the decoration, and by looking closely at the hunter's flintlock rifle, we can place it between the 18th century or the very beginning of the 19th
