Description

Set of 6 "Bikini" chairs, designed by Charles & Ray Eames in 1951 and produced by Herman Miller.These iconic chairs, part of the "Wire Chair" series, are crafted from welded steel wire, here finished in a white lacquer. Their airy structure combines visual lightness with technical sturdiness, reflecting the Eames' innovative approach to industrial materials. The "Bikini" model is distinguished by its ergonomic frame, designed to conform to the body's shape, offering optimal comfort even without cushions.Perfect for a dining room or a contemporary space, these chairs embody the perfect balance between functional design and timeless aesthetics. Their sculptural appeal, enhanced by the pristine white finish, makes them both elegant and versatile pieces.Seat height: 46 cmSigns of
