Description

Aubusson tapestry from the Napoleon III period, 19th century, large door or window in wool and silk, with richly floral decoration on a beige background presenting a composition of roses and hollyhocks. Originally the tapestry was presented in a frame, the edges were covered with a molding, which is why they have remained in their original raw state. Beautiful light and refined composition in soft colors, thick canvas lining, wear in places, small cracks (see photos), good general condition Material: Wool Width: 125 cm Height: 293 cm
