Description

This large oil on canvas is signed "J. Maes de Dycker" and is dated 1915 in England. Visually, it represents a bucolic landscape with a manor on the water's edge, surrounded by greenery, and a sky with soft hues, which recalls the style of European landscape painters of the 19th and early 20th centuries. The style of the painting evokes impressionist or realist works, with particular attention to reflections in the water and the nuances of the sky.
