creating a surreal dimension that invites contemplation and reverie.

This drawing is part of a collection of over one hundred works by the artist, encompassing two main series: one focused on the depiction of female figures and the other exploring geometric and futuristic concepts. These works reflect Monasterio's artistic and intellectual explorations.

About the Artist:
Antonio Monasterio (1915-1983), born in Tenerife and primarily active in southern France, is known for blending symbolic and surreal elements with ideas inspired by science and mathematics. His works range from the representation of femininity to the visual interpretation of abstract concepts, offering compositions where aesthetics and intellectual depth harmoniously converge.
