Description

Applique, Angelo Mangiarotti x Vistosi Murano, "Giogali", 1966The Giogali wall light by Angelo Mangiarotti for Vistosi Murano is an elegant and iconic creation of Italian design, characterized by its modular structure made up of 388 intertwined glass elements. This lamp is a perfect example of Mangiarotti's innovative approach to lighting design, in which the basic element - a blown glass ring - is repeated and hooked into a fluid and sophisticated network. The result is a luminous surface that plays with the transparency and refraction of light, creating a visual effect of great impact. The Giogali wall light adapts to refined and modern interiors, becoming a decorative focal point thanks to its sculptural presence. The timeless design and Murano craftsmanship make it an exclusive piece in the panorama of high-end
