Description

Charming 19th century Breton chest-wardrobe, made of solid chestnut wood, known for its robustness and naturally insecticidal properties. This characterful piece of furniture has a beautiful original patina and features a carved decoration typical of the Breton tradition. The doors are decorated with floral motifs, while the lower crosspiece is distinguished by a carved decoration of a dove, a symbol of marriage. The fittings and lock entries are beautiful original work. In good general condition, this wardrobe combines functionality and rustic elegance.
