Description

Superb rectangular ceramic dish by Robert Picault, an iconic ceramist from Vallauris. This dish features a characteristic decor of the artist, with a geometric pattern made of white tiles decorated with crosses and brown dots, framed by green and black lines. The edge is punctuated by contrasting vertical stripes, giving the whole a timeless graphic elegance. Picault, a key figure in the post-war ceramic revival, was able to combine tradition and modernity in his creations, influenced by Provençal craftsmanship and Mediterranean aesthetics. This dish, both decorative and functional, perfectly illustrates his know-how and his sense of design. A fine example of the work of the Picault workshop, ideal for enriching a collection or bringing an artistic touch to a contemporary table.
