Description

Rare Renaissance furniture panel with a crowned double-headed eagle in an oval with scrolls surrounded by four flowers. This sculpture of a piece of furniture executed on a thick walnut panel is remarkable for its power. The symbolism of the double-headed eagle is unusual. The sculpture is of quality and this panel is beautiful as such, despite one altered side. The beautiful patina of time has played its part and the size of this panel makes it attractive for a wall decoration marked by "Haute Epoque"; moreover a marked curiosity with a clear German influence or beyond. A treated and decorative piece very interesting in reuse or as such
