Description

Impressive table clock in mixed marbles, gilt and bronzed bronze, in the Neoclassical style. It features a black marble base with an intricate frieze, while the body, in white marble, is supported by two gilt bronze caryatids. Two bronzed harpies are positioned on either side of the dial, topped by an eagle holding the chains. The pendulum, shaped like the sun, is surrounded by a naturalistic decoration. France, Empire period. Very good condition as shown in the photos, only the chain on one of the harpies needs to be replaced. The mechanism is not working and requires servicing.
