Description

This marble putti angel, sculpted in direct carving from the 19th century, presents soft lines and a posture marked by serenity. Its hands joined in prayer and its carefully crafted wings recall the influence of religious and classical art of the time. With its soothing expression and harmonious balance, this sculpture easily finds its place in an interior or a garden, bringing a discreet and elegant presence. A testimony to the know-how of 19th century sculptors, anchored in artistic tradition.
