Description

This gilded bronze clock represents Madame de Sévigné, renowned for her letters filled with wit and refinement. The scene depicts a woman in period attire, gracefully holding an object in her hand. The dial, adorned with Roman numerals, is set within an intricately detailed frame, reflecting a taste for refined ornamentation. Its wire movement, characteristic of 19th-century clocks, showcases the craftsmanship of the era. The piece rests on a marquetry wooden base, adding warmth and elegance. Protected under a glass dome, this clock has retained its original charm and brilliance. Whether as a collector's piece or a statement decor item, it will bring character and sophistication to any interior.
