Description

SALE AT COST PRICE:

A magnificent pair of period candlesticks, made of carved wood and covered with silver leaf, testifying to the elegance and refinement of the 18th century. These exceptional objects are part of the tradition of baroque and classical religious furniture, where each piece was designed to magnify light and spiritual elevation.

Detailed description

These candlesticks, of Italian origin, have an architectural and openwork base, typical of the Louis XIV influence and French classicism. Their slender structure rests on a solid base with carved moldings, evolving towards a finely worked stem that ends with an ornate candle holder. The whole is enhanced by an original silver plating which,

History and scenography

Picciardos like these were once placed on altars and in church choirs to accommodate large candles during religious services. Their presence in the history of art is part of a liturgical tradition where sculpted ornamentation served to enhance the solemnity of places of worship. Today, these rare objects are prized for interior decoration, particularly in classic, shabby chic atmospheres or for collections of sacred art.
