Description

Glass vase signed Muller Frères Lunéville, emblematic of the Art Deco period (1920-1930). This model is distinguished by its intense green hue and its octagonal geometric shape, typical of the Art Deco style, which favored clean lines and sculptural volumes. The Muller Frères workshops, located in Lunéville in France, were renowned for their mastery of molded and engraved glass, influenced by the rise of modernism and the legacy of the École de Nancy. This vase perfectly illustrates their know-how, combining elegance and innovation in glasswork. A true testimony to the refinement and avant-gardism of the decorative arts of the early 20th century.
