Description

Painting on hardboard by Willy Eisenschitz around 1950, representing a bouquet of flowers and foliage arranged in a glass vase. This work is part of the tradition of still life revisited by 20th century artists, where shapes and colors are worked with an expressive approach. Active in France after settling there in the 1920s, Eisenschitz is known for his work on light and matter, which we find here through the contrasts of tones and dynamic touches.
