Description

This pair of ovoid vases by Legras, dating from the 1930s, perfectly illustrates the Art Deco style. Made of marmoreal glass paste, they have a subtle marbled effect in beige and brown tones. The relief decoration, obtained by acid work, highlights geometric and stylized patterns, typical of Art Deco. The Legras glassworks, renowned for its innovation, has mastered the effects of marbling and incrustation, giving these pieces a timeless elegance.
