Description

Glazed ceramic tile made by Roland Zobel in the Céramique Les Cyclades workshop around 1980. The relief decoration represents a stylized female face, crowned and framed by floral and architectural motifs. The bright colors and contrasting enamels recall the influence of the decorative arts of the 1970s-1980s, with work characteristic of French art ceramics of this period. The whole is presented in a dark wooden frame, emphasizing the ornamental character of the piece.
