Description

This late 19th-century hand-painted Gansu Tibetan cupboard features a front adorned with intricate depictions of mystic flowers and dragons complemented by decorative patterns throughout. With its delightful patina and rich, colorful texture, this antique cabinet serves as a splendid table for a hallway, entryway, or stairway. It includes a drawer and a cabinet at each end, enhancing its functionality. This beautifully preserved piece of history showcases the rich heritage of Chinese craftsmanship. Originating from the Gansu province, this cabinet exhibits intricate woodwork, traditional joinery, and an aged patina that adds depth and authenticity to its character. The hand-painted details and natural wood grain speak to its age and quality. With ample storage behind its doors, this cabinet offers
