Description

Hand-knotted Art Deco rugs, of excellent quality with natural colors. In the 20s and 30s, abstract art deco style rugs, made from cartoons by painters, architects and decorators, were very popular, both in Europe and in America. The creation of this decorative rug is inspired by the innovations of cubist painting which emerged around 1910. These great artists who worked on color theory, applied the results of their research to carpet cartoons, for a rather spectacular result. In the 20s and 30s, abstract decorations invaded the world of European carpets. More modern furniture required a new style of carpet for the living environment and the work was an ideal response to this demand. This style is highly sought after today because their aesthetics are perfectly suited to modern interiors, the pieces
