Description

Art Nouveau Porcelain Figurine by Ernst Wahlliss, Vienna, c. 1897 This exceptional porcelain figurine by renowned Austrian ceramicist Ernst Wahlliss is a striking example of Art Nouveau craftsmanship and design from approximately 1897. It features a gracefully posed woman draped in flowing garments, accentuated by an elegantly sculpted scarf cascading around her. Remarkably well-preserved, this piece retains delicate details such as finely sculpted fingers, intricate folds of the scarf, and porcelain flowers decorating her shoes--elements often vulnerable to damage. The original enamel finish remains vibrant, enhancing the beauty of this rare sculpture. Marked underneath with a blue crown mark reading "Depose/EW/Turn Wien/Made in Austria," confirming its late
