Description

Antique and rare Dutch 18th-century single-body wardrobe, solid oak structure, mahogany veneer, finely inlaid with maple and boxwood. This inlaid piece features exquisite elegance, with a garland motif throughout. The top part consists of two doors, with shelves inside and five external drawers. At the front corners, there are two columns topped with bronze capitals. The bottom section is comprised of three drawers that increase in size from top to bottom, with flat corners as well. It has a dentil cornice and fluted pyramidal truncated feet. The piece is entirely original, and its structural and aesthetic condition is excellent.
Origin: Netherlands
