Description

Beautiful Louis XIV / Regency period sideboard, early 18th century, in waxed and patinated fruitwood. Opening with two leaves on the front, it reveals an interior with a fixed shelf. This interior is lined with a clean Provencal-style fabric and in very good condition. Our sideboard has very beautiful molding work on the side panels as well as on its front. These moldings are very thick and harmoniously worked. The front legs are arched and end in sabots. This piece of furniture is in very good condition, the grooves are remarkably thick and a guarantee of a high-quality piece of furniture. It is topped with a top decorated with fine molding around its entire perimeter. This top being entirely original, it obviously has traces of use (see photos) signs of the authenticity of the piece of furniture.
