Description

This remarkable 17th century European steel safe/trunk is a testament to both masterful craftsmanship and sophisticated security engineering for its time. Designed for maximum protection, it features five separate locking mechanisms, all activated simultaneously by a single key located on the top. In addition, two additional locks provide an additional layer of security. The solid steel construction of this safe has stood the test of time, preserving its historical integrity. While some rust is visible on the underside, it only adds to its authenticity and antique character. Beyond its functionality, its fine metalwork and sturdy design make it a remarkable decorative piece. This safe is a rare and valuable artifact, ideal for collectors of antique security devices, European metalwork, or
