Description

Silver-plated bronze sculpture representing a dancing couple from the 50s and 60s by Yves Lohé Rare work by this very endearing and very inventive artist who was able to find an original and very personal unique style. He was able to combine gilded bronze and more rarely silver-plated bronze with colored glass paste to give an impression of pictorial quality due to the contrast between these two materials. Here is a very special work with a dynamic movement of the bodies and a luminosity of the faces through the material of the glass paste. Signature on the base. Good size, height 35 cm. Excellent general condition of the patina as well as the glass paste. Possibility of sending in France and around the world by secure and insured package with order tracking. Invoice and certificate provided.
