Description

French School of the end of the 19th or the beginning of the 20th century. Pair of Arab stallions at the Bucket This is a sculpture in composition from copper and tin, very fashionable at the end of the 19th century, because less expensive. The finesse is incredible, the brown patina of very beautiful quality, the work is reminiscent of Ch. Fratin who sculpted an Arab stallion of the same size and of the same very beautiful quality. Small accidents on the terrace, without gravity. 16 x 20 for one and 11.5 X 20 for the other
