Description

A pair of hibachis...

They are like braziers to keep the water warm, for the art of tea...

From an island in the north of JAPAN...

In carved wood...

Black lacquered with gold painted decorations...

The interior sides are in embossed copper...

The additions to the base and the edge are in rosewood...

Two small handles on each side...

The base has an opening on each cut side...

A pretty model with cut sides...

Some imperfections due to use...

But it's frankly not damaging...

The interior bottoms are still in their original condition...

Worn by the embers...

We can add a wooden or copper plate to hide...

If necessary I could ask for a quote...

For the information the hibachi are mostly cylindrical in shape or sometimes square...

Or can use them as cache pots...

Or according to your ideas...!

Weight... 4 kilos 100 (2 kilos 50 each to a few grams near...!)
